Workforce Recruitment:

Economic Lifeblood
to the Community

The company that specializes in creating cutting edge, environmentally friendly commercial and community development recently celebrated its growth and expansion into its new office at Main Street South Shopping Center.

4Site specializes in smart growth with an interdisciplinary approach to land planning and design, engineering, surveying and landscape architecture. While the company works on a variety of projects – including streetscapes, community plans, mixed-use developments or neighborhood revitalization efforts – the focus is on creating a unique sense of place with an appropriate setting.

Evans Quinlivan, chair of the Chamber of Commerce of Huntsville/Madison County, congratulated the company on its leadership and vision.

“We are honored to be with a company that not only advocates economic growth and development, but helps communities, companies and organizations plan for growth in an environmentally responsible way,” Quinlivan said. “You all are truly envisioning tomorrow’s legacy today.”

Quinlivan presented company founders and partners Jerry Cargile, Drew Wharton and Richard Campbell with a special plaque to commemorate the ribbon cutting ceremony. Huntsville City Council President Glenn Watson also spoke at the ceremony on behalf of the city and issued the company best wishes for continued growth and prosperity.

“We at 4SITE are looking forward to the future. There is no other community that generates the excitement and energy for economic growth that we have here in Huntsville, Alabama,” Wharton said.
